A flying safari from Nairobi starts at Wilson Airport, not JKIA. Light aircraft reach Mara airstrips in roughly forty five to sixty minutes, replacing a five to six hour road masai mara day trip from nairobi transfer.

Baggage is strictly limited, usually fifteen kilograms in a soft bag, because holds are small. Airstrips serve clusters of camps, and transfer time from strip to camp can be twenty minutes or an hour.

Flights are weight and weather dependent, and afternoon departures can be delayed by storms. Build a buffer before any international connection. A fly-in safari is the right choice for short trips and for anyone who day trip from Nairobi to Masai Mara values arrival fresh over saving money. Compare fly-in versus road options at %LINK%.
