Why Choose a 20 Yard Dumpster for Your Project?

The 20 yard dumpster is a workhorse size for many construction debris projects. It offers a perfect balance between volume and maneuverability for:

- Home remodel debris like drywall, wood scraps, and old cabinets
- Roofing job waste including shingles, nails, and underlayment

Choosing the Right Size: 10, 15, or 20 Yard Dumpsters?

Choosing the right dumpster size can save you money and headaches. Here's a quick sizing breakdown for you:

- 10 Yard Dumpster: Ideal for small cleanouts, minor remodels, or single-room renovations. Holds about 2 tons of debris.
- 15 Yard Dumpster: Great for medium-size projects, like multi-room remodels or roofing debris. Holds about 2.5 tons of waste.
- 20 Yard Dumpster: Best for larger projects and substantial debris loads including full house remodels, substantial roofing jobs, or small commercial construction. Holds about 2.5 tons but with more volume, so you can mix bulky materials.

Keep in mind the weight allowance (typically 2.5 tons) applies across most sizes, so think about both volume and weight of materials (e.g., heavy roofing shingles vs. light wood scraps) when selecting your dumpster.

What's Included and What Counts as Overage?

Standard rental prices with D.E.M.M. DUMPSTERS LLC typically include:

- Dumpster delivery and pickup
- Rental period (commonly 7 days but can vary)
- Up to 2.5 tons (5,000 lbs) of debris weight

Anything exceeding those 2.5 tons will incur an overage fee, which is clearly stated upfront — usually charged per additional pound. Common heavy materials that may lead to overage include:

- Concrete, brick, or asphalt
- Soil or heavy compact materials
- Dense construction debris

Being aware of the weight limits and planning accordingly helps avoid unexpected fees on your final invoice.
