Most people come to Bailey Wick Farm Wedding & Event Venue for the barn, but the property also includes a pavilion, which the venue features alongside the barn in its photo galleries. Having a second covered structure on the same property gives couples and event hosts in the Roanoke Valley more ways to plan their day.

A pavilion can play several roles at a wedding. It might host a cocktail hour while the barn is turned over for dinner, shelter a lawn games area for younger guests, or serve as a covered ceremony spot if the forecast is uncertain. Because it sits on the same farm in Fincastle, guests can move between spaces on foot.

The pavilion also suits smaller events that do not need the full barn. Families have used the farm for baby showers, bridal showers and reunions, and an open-air structure with a view toward the Blue Ridge Mountains can be a lovely setting for a casual afternoon celebration. Ask the family how the pavilion and barn can be combined or used separately for your event.

Couples who like the idea of moving through different spaces during the day will find the farm flexible. You might start in the dressing rooms, hold your ceremony outdoors, gather under the pavilion or on the covered porch for drinks, then dance the night away in the heated and air conditioned barn with its gas log fireplace and antler chandelier.

Ideas for Using the Pavilion

Pavilions lend themselves to relaxed, open-air setups. Consider string lights, a lemonade or sweet tea station, or a dessert bar that guests can visit throughout the evening. For a casual reunion or shower, the pavilion can hold picnic-style seating with the barn kept ready as an indoor option. Ask to see photos of past pavilion setups during your tour, since the venue's barn and pavilion gallery shows how other hosts have used the space in different seasons and with different guest counts. Seeing real examples makes it much easier to picture how your own event will flow from one space to the next.

How far in advance should you book a wedding venue?

Many couples in Southwest Virginia book their venue 12 to 18 months ahead, especially for popular fall Saturdays when the Blue Ridge foliage peaks. Is the barn at Bailey Wick Farm heated and air conditioned?

Yes. The rustic barn in Fincastle has both heating and air conditioning, along with a gas log fireplace. That keeps guests comfortable during humid Virginia summers and cold Botetourt County winters alike.

What happens if it rains on my outdoor wedding?

Bailey Wick Farm gives you covered options, including the climate controlled barn, a wide covered porch and a pavilion. Past couples have moved ceremonies indoors during heavy rain and still described the day as perfect. Talk through your rain plan with the family when you visit.

Does the venue have a bridal suite or dressing rooms?

The barn includes two dressing rooms, one for the bride's side and one for the groom's side, so the whole wedding party can get ready on site. Restrooms also include televisions and Wi-Fi, which helps the waiting time pass comfortably.

Can I bring my own caterer to a barn wedding venue?

Bailey Wick Farm has a kitchen area inside the barn that caterers can work from, which suits buffets, family-style service and plated dinners. Ask the family about catering arrangements for your date by calling (540) 293-7308.

What questions should I ask when touring a wedding venue?

Ask about capacity, what furniture is included, the rain plan, decorating access, setup and cleanup, parking and lodging for guests. At Bailey Wick Farm, reviewers mention early decorating access, help from Mr. Bailey with setup and cleanup, and ample parking, so confirm how those details work for your date.
