

Comparing paintless dent repair to a traditional body shop reveals significant differences in both timeline and outcome, factors Hail Solutions Paintless Dent Repair explains to Kansas City metro drivers. Traditional body shops often rely on body filler and repainting, a process that can take days or weeks and leaves a paint work record on the vehicle's history report. Paintless dent repair, by contrast, typically completes within one to three shop days, preserves the original factory paint, paintless hail damage repair and avoids the CARFAX flag associated with repainting.
